FROM THE DIRECTOR'S DESK: Resolving to Do the Will of God

If you're inclined to make a New Year's resolution for 2020, resolve to do the will of God. Try to be obedient to Matthew 5:44. Loving your enemies may be a hard thing to do. As human beings living in the flesh, it's quite natural to feel less than loving toward those who seek you harm. I'll admit that I struggle with this. On my daily and weekly radio broadcasts I point out evil in America and around the world. I name names. I warn Christians of the dangers of association with the enemy. But I seldom pray for them. And loving them was as far down my 'to do' list as it could get. So I'm being very honest when I tell you that this is an ongoing process with me.

I pray daily for the lost, but there's a tendency to overlook those who are antagonistic toward our Lord. What would I have done with Saul of Tarsus? God forbid! But if God could save me out of humanism, can He not also save someone who is currently a liberal progressive, either politically or theologically, as well? Just as these lost souls are in bondage because of their sin, am I not also in bondage by being judgmental? If being in bonds is as being in chains, then how are we expected to grow? How can we take in nourishment and exercise to benefit the body? Likewise, the mind and heart lack the sustenance only God's Word can provide if we think we're already good enough that we don't need more.

God forgive my smugness. Our job as Christians is not to seek vengeance but to spread the gospel. The life-saving, life-changing message of the gospel of Christ. Once we clearly understand that, many of the questions with which we are faced in this world where evil dominates become moot. In a world that is filled with hate, we are called to love. More precisely, to exhibit the love of Christ. If you hate your enemy, you have hurt yourself more in spirit than you hurt him in the flesh. Hatred is the prodigy of dark places. Therefore not only does Christ order us to love our enemies for the sake of cherishing them, but also for the sake of driving away from ourselves what is bad for us.

In the constant battle between our fallen human nature and our Christ-imputed righteousness, we find it's not always easy to love. We need to remember that we've been changed. We've taken off the old man and put on the new. We're now capable of loving our enemy. I'm still going to call them out. I'm still going to name names. But now we need to know their identity for prayer purposes. The key to forgiving others is remembering how much God has forgiven you. And with that forgiveness comes His love. Make it a part of your prayer life today to share that with someone whom you consider to be an enemy.

America's Forgotten Father

By Robert Luthardt, Sr.

A baby was born on February 22, 1732. His father, Augustine, was descended from a distinguished English family that owned a village named Wessyington (later changed to Washington). Augustine's first wife, Jane Butler, gave him two sons before she died. Two years later, he married Mary Ball who gave him six more children, the eldest she named George. Mary was a woman of sterling character and abundant common sense. She was a good and proper mother to all the children.

When George was only 12 his father died, leaving Mary at 37 to raise her five remaining children and two stepsons. While Mary was tender, loving, and cheerful, she was also dignified and firm. Her "mother's word" was law. Later in life, George attributed his positive achievements to Mary's influence, especially her Christian morality.

Educational opportunity was limited on a plantation. Besides his mother, the Sexton of their church helped with his primary education. His older brothers had gone to a private school in England and they instilled that into George. He was almost exclusively homeschooled.

At fourteen George desired to enter the Navy, and his older brother made the arrangements, even putting his clothes aboard a British Man-O-War. But his deep love for his mother outweighed his desires when her sadness made her more downcast than he had ever seen. Besides her love for him, she truly needed his help with the estates Augustine left her. Also, George's siblings regarded him as father figure. George was unusually tall (six foot four at adulthood) which gave him a commanding presence all his life.

At 16 George became proficient with the instruments and the trade of land surveying. He was also well acquainted with most areas of Virginia and on good terms with the local Indians. Lord Fairfax wanted his vast holdings surveyed, and he employed young George. From this endeavor George gained self-reliance and a frontiersman's out-of-doors expertise. This knowledge was crucial for an Army General later in life.

Trouble stirred between England and France and Virginia prepared for war. The province was divided into military districts and George had been appointed Inspector General of one and a major in the militia. He had learned military tactics from his brother Lawrence who had served in the English forces. He learned field work from him and sword use from a soldier when George accompanied them on a voyage to Barbados. There he contracted smallpox, but God spared his life, though he was marked with severe scarring.

As war came closer, Virginia Governor Dinwiddie commissioned Washington to travel through hostile Indian areas to deliver a protest letter to a French fort south of Lake Erie and return with their reply. On the homeward journey, he and Gist, his companion, were met by unfriendly Indians who insisted on guiding them. One was allowed. Once Washington knew they were being misled, he declared they would make camp for the night. The Indian ran a few steps, turned and fired at Washington; somehow, he missed. Gist seized the Indian to kill him,

A Few Considerations

By Pat Knight, Defender

“The words of the Lord are pure, as silver tried in a furnace of earth, purified seven times. Thou shalt keep them, O Lord, thou shalt preserve them from this generation forever.” (Psalm 12:6,7)

Consider that about the mid 1800's, after “The Great Awakening,” which exposed the Harlot Church of Rome with its “System of Works,” pagan rituals and many unscriptural teachings, God in His sovereignty raised up many of the “Giants of our Faith,” thundering forth with the Truth of God’s Sovereign Grace. Satan retaliated, thus it was no accident to see cults such as Jehovah’s Witnesses, Mormons, so called “Christian Science,” Seventh Day Adventists, etc. All started to spring up during this Period, as well as his insidious attack on God’s Pure Word via the many “perversions” beginning to appear (which don’t even agree with each other), creating great confusion of which Satan (not our Sovereign God) is the author. Consider this: We of the Reformation Faith (I call it the Restored first century Faith) - know there are no accidents with our Holy God, and thus when the harlot church of Rome was about to put Tyndale to the stake, his last request was that God would be pleased to put God’s pure word into English (our beloved AV 1611 KJV) and no accident that our great giants of the Faith such as George Whitfield, C.H. Spurgeon, Billy Sunday, etc. (I could go on), all used and loved our KJV. And by the way, these Modern so called “scholars” can’t begin to compare to these true scholars that were the great godly men of our Faith.

So as you consider that the cults, the ungodly Graf Welhausen School of “Higher Criticisms” and its twin sister “Textual Criticism,” all come from the same unscriptural source, it’s simply no accident. There is, as Solomon said, “Nothing new under the sun.” Satan’s job has always been (since the Garden) to question and undermine God’s Pure Providentially Preserved Word. Thus I repeat these same 300 perversions which don’t even agree with each other is utter confusion, and Satan (not our God) is the author of confusion. Because “If the foundations be destroyed what can the righteous do” (Psalm 11:3)? Thus God gave us providentially exactly what He intended for his people to have, namely our God preserved AV 1611 KJV which comes down to us through the Pure Stream, not the Westcott-Hart corrupt manuscripts on which the majority of modern day perversions are based. There is overwhelming documentation from good sound sources on the two streams, proving that the corrupt stream goes back to that old Roman Harlot.

more than the brutality of British forces, especially instigating savagery by Indians upon innocent men, women and children.

Not to see the hand of God in history is not to know His-Story. For eight long years (1775-1783) the colonials endured frustration and suffering – loss of homes, farms and life itself. But God had planted a Bible-honoring, praying people in America and He heard their prayers. He granted many providential provisions on their behalf; not the least of which was raising up one of His sons to lead them to freedom.

Another awesome providential event in Washington's life occurred when he was Commander-in-Chief of the ragtag Continental Army. Just after the signing of the Declaration of Independence another great general (Howe) arrived in New York on Staten Island with 20,000 men – well-trained, battle-hardened soldiers – all well provisioned. General Washington's 8,000 men were farmers, shopkeepers, tradesmen and inexperienced militiamen. They were outnumbered and outgunned and though they fought bravely, they were driven back and trapped with the river behind them. One more battle would end it.

While they waited, Washington and his men prayed until night fell. The British did not pursue their advantage preferring to wait until morning. No one on either side doubted the battle's outcome. Washington's only hope was to cross the river but the British were watching. Did they perhaps claim God's promises such as, "all things are possible with God" (Matt. 19:26) or "In the SHADOW of thy wings ... my refuge..." or "he that trusts in the Lord shall ... abide under the "SHADOW" of the Almighty" (Ps. 51:1, 91:1-2). Who can say?

Perhaps it was only a coincidence that a dense fog came between the Colonials and the British so that Washington ordered using every raft, canoe or water-worthy conveyance to evacuate. He ordered silence for the operation. All men, horses and equipment were safely transported. As the last crossing was completed, the fog lifted – the "SHADOW" was no longer necessary; or was Washington just LUCKY?

Washington did have his mother's last admonition to him, "Son neglect not the duty of prayer." He also knew that, "the effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much" (James 5:16). Other such deliverances could be cited of God blessing America. In George Washington's personal belongings was found his "Book of Prayers" in which he wrote: "Thou gavest Thy Son to die for me; and ... assurance of salvation upon my repentance and sincerely endeavoring to conform ... to His Holy precepts ...".

Only Israel is God's chosen nation, the extended family and bloodline of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. Nevertheless, God has also raised up Kings and nations and peoples to stand with Israel (Cyrus, Hiram of old) American Christians and certain Presidents (Truman 1948; Trump 2017) which can only bring God's favor (Esther 4:14; Gen. 12:3) "for such a time as this." May it please the Almighty God of creation to hear our prayers for the blessing of Jerusalem and the healing of our own land. Keep looking up (Luke 21:28)!

The Democrats Are Now the Russians—Destroying Church & State from Within

By Robert Campanero, Defender

Whether they influenced any presidential election, the Russians have been the ones ultimately behind the recently exposed corruption in the Catholic Church.

As well, they have gone largely undetected as the agents who implanted the destructive Leftist social attitudes now erupting across streets and campuses in present day America.

Those Russians, lately blamed in part by some for the outcome of the 2016 election, were intent on changing the course of history long before the political appointment of any special counsel.

The Russians, those Russian Communists of the former Soviet Union who dominated and enslaved millions of people in Eastern Europe and elsewhere for decades, left no stone unturned and spared no imagined technique in instilling their destructive ideas worldwide including here in the United States.

While the Soviet Union has now long ceased to exist, the Democrats and their allies on the Left continue unabated to exert Communist style subversion here at home, all with the intent of destroying the nation from within.

Here is what has been happening:

The present revelations of corruption in the Catholic Church of sexual deviancy and official cover-up are absolutely the end result of deliberate Communist infiltration into the church starting in the 1920's.

Joseph Stalin, Soviet Russian dictator and mass murderer, soon after acquiring power, undertook to infiltrate the seminaries in a move which would eventually undermine them and neutralize the liberating influence of the church, destroying it from within. This was carried out by a woman named Bella Dodd, a member of the Communist Party in the United States.

Miss Dodd, for twenty years starting in the late 1920's and before, eventually recanting her actions, entered 1,100 Communist men of low or no faith or morals into American Catholic seminaries, many of whom ideally in keeping with the plot were sexually deviant. Once established, successive waves of similar men made their way through the priesthood and into the church hierarchy.

At that same time, another Soviet Communist's subversive effort aimed at American social institutions ultimately rendered them hostile to traditional American ideals and to those who uphold and preserve those ideals.

In this incursion, a German by the name of Willi Munzenberg, one close to the violent, iron fisted Soviet anarchist Vladimir Lenin, became the organizational mastermind for the infiltration

Which Will It Be?

By Hank Arthur, Defender

Slopping hogs, is a country thing, but it's a necessary thing to do.
Any hillbilly will attest to that, and I will certify it's true.
Bacon and eggs, or a ham sandwich, cost you and I no strife.
But, looking at it from the pig's view, that breakfast cost him his life.

The prodigal son was slopping hogs when the truth hit him between the eyes.
What am I doing here in this pig pen? I've wasted everything listening to lies.
I'm going home to see my dad. I'll tell him what a fool I've been,
Leaving home and a loving home, then wasting everything in sin.

Sometimes we are the prodigal, sometimes we are the pig.
Sometimes we find ourselves in a hole, only stupidity can dig.
Before you like they, lose everything, give your heavenly Father a call.
Ask Him for forgiveness because, salvation covers it all.

Have You Been Jesus?

By Hank Arthur, Defender

Have you been Jesus to someone today? Did you help someone along the way?
When He left this world to go over there, Jesus left His lost children in our care.
You must be willing to surrender your will, remember what He gave on Golgotha Hill.
He paid our ransom and saved us from sin, then told us to reach lost women and men.

He sent His Holy Spirit to teach us what to say,
and gave us the Holy Bible to show the way.
Jesus was our example, the Holy Spirit, our comforter.
We must boldly reach out let nothing deter.
You are the only Bible some will ever read.
You must be their Jesus and plant the seed.
Someone will water, the spirit will plead.
But, before there is a harvest, plant the seed.

of destructive ideas into the United States. His targets were academia, the news media, and entertainment. This had the purpose of disparaging and discrediting traditional American institutions and values as being inferior in order to eventually overturn the free market, free enterprise society and economy for a centrally controlled authoritarian Socialist and Communist system.

Mr. Munzenberg, for his part, appealed to the arrogance and superiority of individuals by having them consider themselves to be above others as the source of social righteousness. This simple notion, once implanted, took on a life of its own and accounts for the overbearing, the arrogance, and the lack of objectivity saturating today's Leftist culture.

So, a once strong Catholic denomination which in an earlier day built churches, schools, orphanages, and hospitals, the last of which were opened to everyone, and which was a strong and stabilizing influence especially in populous East Coast cities, is now a church in retrenchment, either closing or consolidating parishes. It is hemorrhaging members. It has lost its moral courage and moral leadership.

In the larger picture, the U.S., in a departure from its founding in virtue, has been for decades on a path of becoming more and more a nation of increasing incivility, lawlessness, and stifling Socialist control.

With all of this, the Democrats and the Leftists are increasingly unable to hide their destruction.

As people are beginning to see the problem, they are beginning to see the opportunities. Individual Catholics are speaking out and taking action. Among the people generally, the Walk Away Movement has begun in very significant numbers across various population groups and is rejecting Leftist influences and their sources in the Democrat Party and its supportive and propagandistic media.

If Americans want their nation to avoid becoming decadent and dysfunctional in ways similar to those now afflicting Catholicism and to avoid falling into the Socialist and Communist tyrannies of the last century, they must be alert to the dangers and exercise strong active citizenship. This means defeating the ideas and distortions of the Left and being energized to preserve our way of life.

I have a file full of proof as my beloved Preacher/husband and I had been doing an in-depth study for over thirty years before the Lord called him “home,” and for the last twenty years I’ve continued this study on my own. My sincere prayer is that God’s people be not deceived. Revelation gives the final warning, Not to add or subtract or change in any way, such as this so called Dynamic Equivalence which is a fancy term for “butchering” God’s Word, by substituting man’s opinion of what they interpret as the general gist of what said Scripture means. Beware—be warned as God’s Word clearly says in no uncertain terms. For space sake I would like to quote only the last part of “The Master of Deceit” by Dan Demarest:

*“So the warlord of iniquity, the lion of the night,
Continues with his wicked plot to rid the world of Light.*

Casting doubt into the hearts of men to question what God has said, Making His Words of non effect. They trust scholarship instead!

*For changing words, correcting texts, and coveting ‘the Greek’
Is not the work of the Comforter ... but the Master of Deceit.”* (Isaiah 40:8)

One last thought—Do you not see the increased attack on God’s Pure Preserved Word? Again this is no accident!! I ask You to ask yourself isn’t it about time to connect the dots??? And isn’t it time for God’s true remnant to “cry aloud, spare not, lift up thy voice like a trumpet and show my people ...” (Isaiah 58:1)

Please take heed! In His Lovely Name, Pat
